MEN THAT TAMMANY TALKS OF.

There Are Others—Gakley May Be Nomi-nated for Sheriff—County Clerkship Talked Of as a Consolation for Haffen

- Coogan Facing Disappoin The Hon. John F. Carroll, head oiler the Tammany machine, is going up to laratoga to-day, and the Tammany colony will be fully established there by the end f the week. Street Cleaning Commisner Nagle is going up as soon as he can. fr. Nagle is recovering from his broken leg, but the other day he met with an accint by which the nail was torn from his great toe on the right foot, and so he is a ripple yet. However, he will be well igh to go to Seratogs. Andy Freednan will not be there yet awhile, for he sailed for England yesterday to visit the absentee landlord, Squire Richard Croker, at his home in Wantage, Berks. Mr. Freednan said that he would bring Mr. Croker with him. It was said about Tammany Hall that Mr. Freedman would get back here about Sept. 10, and that Mr. Croker would go at once to Saratoga, where he will be the guest of John J. Scannell, Fire Commissioner, who has asked Acting Mayor Guggenheimer to deputize some one to act as Fire Commissioner in his absence. But Mr. Scannell may be put on trial in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme

In the meantime there are a great many uesses as to Tammany's candidate for Mayor. It was said yesterday that Mr. Carroll brought back no information on this point from England, save that in a conversation on the racecourse Mr. Croker remarked that the Hall went to the courts for Van Wyck and that it might go to the Justice Morgan J. of frequently, but it is known that he does not want the nomination. Justice Leonard Giegerich has been urged on some of the leaders because he is a German. Justice leaders because he is a German. Justice McAdam's name came up in conversation the other day and it was said that he might be called on to make the run. Justice Truax is another who has been mentioned by men who are able to reach Mr. Croker rith suggestions when they want to. The riends of Corporation Counsel Whalen have not given up hope that he will make have not given up hope that he will make a fight for the nomination.

President Lewis Nixon of the new East River Bridge Commission, who was the chairman of the Committee of Five to prove that there was one poolroom in New York, has never been withdrawn from the race. President John Fox of the "Tickers and Tappers' Club," who is now hobnobbing with Mr. Croker in England, has many friends. Congressman George B. McClellan has been talked of seriously by a great many of the men in Tammany Hall, and always there is talk of Nathan Straus being put at the head of the ticket when it is said that Tammany has got to be good.

It is stated that the Hon. James J. Coogan is perfecting his title to a residence in Man-hattan borough so that he can have the important office of President of the Borough again. There are other candidates for the office, and it was said yesterday that Mr. Coogan was likely to have a dis appointment.

It is thought that Councilman John T. It is thought that Councilman John T. Oakley, who was slated for Sheriff in 1899, but was turned down because he let the Council get into a row with the courts, may be nominated for Sheriff. Alderman Robert Muh, who is one of the right hands of Senator Plunkitt in the Fifteenth district, Deputy County Clerk George H. Fahrbach and Assemblyman Julius Harburger are all said to be after the nomination for County Clerk. It is said, however, that an effort will be made to prevent the nomination of Louis Haffen for the Presidency of The Bronx and make him feel good by nominating him for clerk. Assemblyman Harburger would like to be Register, failing to be County Clerk.

MAYBE GAYNOR'S DADY'S MAN. It's Said the Colonel Will Hire a Steam-

When the Hon. Michael J. Dady of Havana and Brooklyn said that he had a candidate for the office of Mayor who would make a grand fight and be elected, every one tried to get him to tell who his man was, and Col. Dady basked in the white light of publicity to his heart's content. He saw that he had a good thing in the secret and so he refused to tell, and that set every one guessing

Yesterday there were two guesses. of them was that the Hon. Alfred T. White, Commissioner of Public Works under Mayor Schleren, who lives in Col. Dady's district, was the man. The other guess was that the man was no other than William I. Cannor, Justice of the Supreme Gaynor, Justice of the Supreme Court in the Second district, independent Democrat and leader of several reform movements. Mr. Gaynor was a Clevemovements. Mr. Gaynor was a Cleveland Democrat, and is a free trader of note in national politics. He came to the front in Brooklyn on account of his prosecution of John Y. McKane, the boss of Coney Island, whom he had sent to Sing Sing Prison for election frauds.

Justice Gaynor was the man before whom the Ice Trust proceedings were carried on and it was in his court that Mayor Wyck was examined as to his interest in the trust after it had raised the price of ice and had ceased the sale of the five-cent chunks that the people of the tenements demanded. Since he has been on the bench he has taken part in many public movehave attracted attention one time and another. He has also been active in many matters of interest, and among them has been the Rapid Transit Commission. He denounced the proposed contract for the tunnel to Brooklyn, and in a letter he urged the Mayor to withhold his approval of the plan, saying that the city was being swindled.

Justice Gaynor is on a trip to Europe now and Col. Dady, it was said yesterday. intends to have a steamboat load of poli-ticians go down the Bay when he comes home and give him a rousing reception. This is the way all the Brooklyn politicians have of showing their love for a man. They have him go away to Europe and when he returns they hire the biggest boat they can got y can get and go down the Bay and yell compliments at him as his ship comes up the harbor. Ex-Mayor Charles. A. Schieren was subjected to this treatment and he survived. Ludwig Nissen, who has a lot of friends among the Germans, is in Europe and all of the men who would like to have him selected as the state. like to have him selected as the candidate are going to meet him down the Bay.

MIKE CALLAHAN FOR FOLEY Doyers Street and Pell Street Allenated From the Divver Side.

Councilman Tom Foley's lieutenants announced with great satisfaction last evening that they had strengthened their lines a great deal in their fight against the Hon. P Livver in the Second district by annexing the Hon. Mike Callahan, who keeps a lace at Doyers street and Chat-ham Square Mr. Callahan has a large following among the voters who live about Pell and Doyers streets, and he is able to influence a good many votes by argument and persuasion. Hitherto he has been in the Divver faction.

The Divver men in the district affect to make light of the loss of the Callahan influence, and said that as they were going to win anyway, it did not make much dif-

FIRED 12 SHOTS AT COPS But Roughs Only Hit Man They Wanted to Save.

Twelve shots were fired last night three policeman by an East Side gang of roughs at Rivington and Goerck streets None of the policemen was hit, but one bullet went through the leg of the man they were trying to arrest. He was Thomas Comisky, an ex-convict, better known to the police as Biff, and one of the gang.

Biff was wanted for knocking Policeman Frank Burns of the Madison street station on the head with a blackjack at Essex street and East Broadway on Wednesday morning. There was no special reason for the assault. Burns was patrolling his post and didn't know that Comisky was in the neighborhood until he felt his blackjack. The blow was not well aimed and th cop was not so badly done up, that he could not recognize his assailant, although he couldn't catch him at the time he couldn't catch him at the time.

Burns, accompanied by Detectives Corbett and O'Farrell of the same precinct set out last night to search the yards in the neighborhood of Seward Park in which Biff and his friends sleep and hide their loot and to which they sometimes take their victims so that they can rob them outsily without attracting too much at quietly without attracting too much at

The searchers found the gang just before midnight celebrating with the beer from a dozen or more stolen kegs. Biff was there and Burns recognized him as his assailant When the cops tried to get at him his friend ranged themselves between him and the police and that's when the shooting began. The police didn't draw their own revolvers, but used their clubs so effectively that they got at Biff after cracking the craniums of half a dozen thugs not wanted at the moment

Comisky was arrested his com panions fired another volley in an attempt to rescue him. One of their bullets went to rescue him. One of their builds went through his right leg just above the knee. He yelled with pain. The cops grinned. Biff waved to his friends and told them to quit firing and let the cops have him. Comisky had been landed in the police station the three detectives wen out with re-enforcements to hunt for hi friends, but they had got under cover for

TIRED OF HER THIRD HUSBAND. Sued for Separation He Says She Him to Get Ills Money.

William Rusk of 2163 Pitkin avenue Brooklyn, who is employed in the navy yard and who designed the boilers for the late battleship Maine, is being sued by his wife, Jane Rusk, in the Supreme Court for a separation on the ground of cruel treatment. Rusk is the plaintiff's third husband. She is 56 years old and he is 58. It is said that she is worth $35,000 and that her husband is worth $25,000. Rusk denies his wife's allegations. He says that soon after their marriage in No-vember, 1899, his wife, aided by a Mrs. Schmidt, endeavored to get him to make all his property over to her, and he is per-suaded that she married him only for his

Mrs. Florence A. Williams, a daughter of Rusk, makes affidavit that she saw her stepmother and Mrs. Schmidt wriggle their fingers at the tips of their noses at her father. It was alleged that Mrs. Rusk rides a bicycle, visits Coney Island, smokes cigarettes and throws the stubs about the house. She is credited with owning seventy-five shares of American Steel

Rusk testified that he has sent flowers to his wife since the separation and has also invited her to visit the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo with him, but she declined both bouquets and invitation

WARSHIP MAY GO TO PANAMA

WISCONSIN ORDERED FROM STA-TION TO SAN FRANCISCO.

Ten Days From That Port to Panama a She Will Be Ordered South if Emer-gency Requires It—President of Panama Railroad Asks That Warship Be Sent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 .- Acting Secretary of the Navy Hackett directed this afternoon that orders be issued to Rear Admira Casey, commanding the Pacific station, to send the battleship Wisconsin to San Francisco as soon as possible, so the vessel may be nearer Panama to meet the possible emergency of sending her to the scene of the Colombian disturbances. This action was taken by Mr. Hackett in advance of any specific request from the State Department for a vessel to go to Panama, it being considered advisable to have a ship as near as possible in case conditions on the Isthmus should demand the presence of another vessel besides the gunboat Machias. No important information was received at the State Department to-day in regard to the trouble, either in Columbia or Venezuela. A letter from J. Edward Simmons, President of the Panama Railroad was received by acting Secretary of State Adee this morning, in which Mr. Simmons said he apprehended trouble along the line of the railroad. He based this apprehension on reports received by him from the company's agents in Colombia, and he asked that a vessel be sent to Panama as well as to Colon. Mr. Simmons was advised that the Machias had been ordered to go to Colon, and was told that the question of sending a vessel to Panama would be considered. Meanwhile, Mr Adee sent to Mr. Hackett a copy of President Simmons's letter, but decided not to request that a vessel be sent to Panama unless further reports demand such action.

Mr. Hackett late this afternoon inquired into the subject and found that the Wisconsin and the Iowa are now nearly 4,000 miles distant from Panama and that it would take some time for either of them to reach the Isthmus. He decided to lessen to reach the Isthmus. He decided to lessen the distance by having one of the vessels go to San Francisco and there await further advices as to whether to go to Panama or return to Puget Sound.

The Wisconsin is a 17-knot first class battleship, carrying eighteen guns and can easily make over 300 miles a day. As it is over 3,000 miles from San Francisco to Panama it would take her about ten days to make the journey. She is comdays to make the journey. She is commanded by Capt. George C. Reiter. It is probable that she will be able to leave Brewerton by Saturday morning and reach Brewerton by Saturday morning and reach San Francisco some time Monday morning. Should any reports be received in the meantime from the Isthmus showing a serious intrerruption of traffic and that serious interruption of traffic and that American interests are endangered she will then be ordered to proceed at once to Panama. Meanwhile, every effort is being made to get the Machias under way for Colon. There have been several de-lays owing to her repairs not having been completed, but it is thought she will leave Beston not later than to morrow. She Boston not later than to-morrow. She will proceed direct to Old Point, where written instructions will be given her commander to govern his action at Colon.

These instructions have been bested upon

These instructions have been based upon the treaty between Colombia and the United the treaty between Colombia and the United States, and Lieutenant-Commander Sargent is told just what he shall do to preserve neutrality along the line of transit. His attention is called to the fact that Colombia guarantees to keep the line open for traffic and that the United States is bound to do all in its power to preserve the neutrality of the line. He is further directed to use every care to avoid recognizing the belligerency of the insurgents, and before landing any marines to keep the line open first to inquire of Colombia if she cannot do so.

The officers of the Panama Railroad Company have received advices from the Isthmus that show that there is increasing activity on the part of the insurgents, who, in the shape of roving bands of forty or fifty men, have adopted guerrilla tactics. They have as yet no general organization, but if a leader should appear as is very they would constitute a hat might prove too strong for the Colombian Government's scattered forces to in the neighborhood of the Isthmus num-bered perhaps 300 or 400 men and was entrenched near Chorrera, where the Government troops were apparently dis-inclined to attack them.

The trouble is a sudden revival of the insurrection that was supposed to have been suppressed a year ago, and the Panama Railroad officers fear a repetition of the events that attended the so-called Prestan events that attended the so-called Prestan rebellion on the Isthmus in 1885, when Colon was set on fire and millions of dollars' worth of property destroyed.

The Machias Start on Her Journey. Boston, Aug. 8.—The gunboat Machias, Lieutenant-Commander Nathan Sargent commanding, at 2 o'clock this afternoon veighed anchor and steamed down the harbor on the run to Hapton Roads, where it is expected she will get orders to proceed at once to Colon, Panama, to protect Ameri at once to Colon, Panama, to protect Ameri-can interests. The coal and supplies which the ship needs before leaving for Central Africa, will most likely go aboard at Hamp-ton Roads. Commander Sargent said this morning that Lieutenant-Commander McCrea, who is now on duty at Washington, will relieve him at Norfolk.

BRYAN'S ATTITUDE ON OHIO. He Explains Why He Was Against a Bolt

in That State. LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 8.-Mr. Bryan devotes his leading editorial this week to explaining why he discountenanced the bolt in Ohio. He says: Whether the Ohio Democracy is to take its position on the Grover Cleveland side of public issues is a question vet to be determined at the primaries after the people understand the issues presented. To leave the party at this time is to assume the battle lost, and by assuming it lost help the enemy. When the fight was made between 1895 and 1896 we had an Administration to fight as well as all the banks and railroads; no many who were against us then act openly with the enemy, and those who have returned after a temporary sojourn in the camp of the enemy are handicapped by the record they have made, but the question which confronts the loyal Democrats of Ohio is how best to correct the mirtakes made by the convention and thus rescue the Democratic party from the control of those who would Republicanize it. "The fact that the platform contains much that is good, together with the further fact that the candidates nominated, from Mr. Kilbourne down through the entire list, have been supporters of the party list, have been supporters of the party ticket in recent campaigns, would make it impossible to organize a bolt with any promise of success. The first effort of a bolting ticket would be, therefore, to augment the chances of Republican success this fall. The second effect would be to lessen the influence of the bolting Democrats in future party contests. It is not fair to assume that the convention spoke for the rank and file in repudiating spoke for the rank and file in repudiating the Kansas City platform, and those who leave the party at this time weaken the reform element of the party and give to the gold and corporation element greater proportional influence in the party

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 8. - The Chamber of Commerce has decided upon Aug. 22 as Syracuse day at the Pan-American, the date having been approved by the New York Central Railway officials. The fac-tories and stores will be closed. J. William Smith is the Director-General for the day.

A Scotch Appreciation of Travis—3 Eddy Wine at Apawamis.

Although Travis has not beaten any of the cracks on his trip to Great Britain, he has earned the good opinion of the critics in Scotland, where he has to this time con-fined his activities. Devereaux Emmet of the Garden City Golf Club, on his return from a trip among the Scottish links eigh-teen months ago, in an interview in THE teen months ago, in an interview in THE SUN, stated that Travis would find himself in the first flight abroad should he ever go across. This opinion is borne out by the following criticism from the Edinburgh Scotsman, a foremost authority on the game, which also contains a synopsis of Travis's

"It has been the fashion hitherto rather o hold American golfers cheap, and to think that ages will elapse before they can challenge with any success our home performers To judge from Mr. Travis this is quite a mistake. To put it briefly, the American cham-pion is quite able to hold his own with our home-bred amateurs at their best. There are, in fact, only a few, such as Mr. H. H. Hilton, Mr. J. Ball, Jr., and Mr. R. Maxwell, that one would care to back against him with anything of odds. Mr. Travis's visit has not been quite a case of reni, vidi, rici, but his performances have convinced all who have seen them that na-

convinced all who have seen them that native-born American golf has in future to be reckoned with and to be held in respect biginning at Troon and Prestwick. Mr iravis gave a good account of himself against some of the Western cracks. At Birnton he did a 75, and defeated Mr. Angus aacdonald, one of the best locals, by something like five up and four to play. At North Birwick he had all the best of the play against Mr. Norman Hunter, though with the best of the luck the latter won at Point Garry; and at St. Andrews Mr. Bruce Hunter, nephew of old Tom Morris, just took all his time to wreatle through against the Yankee.

B: it remembered that Mr. Travis was a stranger in all these parts, and that, as a matter of fact, he comes to this country to recruit his health, having been run down, and that if he obeyed his doctor he should not be playing at all, and it will be seen that he is a gem of the first water in golf. We need only give the score of this stranger against Mr. Hunter at North Birwick to show his capabilities. It was as follows: 4, 5, 5, 4, 4, 6, 6, 4, 4, 5, 5, 4, 4, 5, 7, 4-83. His 6 at kelburn was due to his caddie's wrong advice that he should play short of the burn, which he could easily have carried, and thus made a 4: while at the Gate hole he drove into the burn from the tee and lost a strike. At the Quarry Out, though he got a 4, he drove into the burn from the tee and lost a strike. At the Quarry Out, though he got a 4-be drove into the burn from the town of the same of the game. Mr. J. R. Gairdner thinks his style very like that of Charles Hutchings. He hasn't a full swing, but with a grand follow-through he gets away a long ball with a long carry. He approaches well, and is really a first-class putter. Mr. Travis ! now at St. Andrews, and intends to visit Hoylake and other courses before he goes back to America. He was high in praise of Barnton, and placed Muirfield far in front of North Berwick as a test of the game; but it was pointed out to him that he had seen Muirfield at its best and No

WANTS HIM IMPEACHED. Grand Jury of New Orleans Gets After a Careless City Official.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 6 .- The Grand Jury to-day recommended the impeachment of Thomas J. Moulin, Commissioner of Public Works of the city of New Orleans, for malfeasance and general incompetence in office. Moulin is the Democratic boss of the Seventh ward, one of the largest wards in the city, and in the division of offices was nominated for Commissioner of Public Works, the largest and most important in the city, having charge of the street cleaning, garbage removal, drainage,

There has been trouble ever since Moulin's selection. So many serious charges were made against him that he asked the City made against him that he asked the City Council to grant him an investigation. A committee was appointed, which disclosed carelessness in the administration of the department, but not enough in its opinion for his removal from office. The bad working of the department, especially in the matter of drainage, caused a renewal of the complaints, with the result that the Grand Jury to-day recommended Moulin's impeachment, which can be ordered by the City Council.

The Grand Jury charges that Moulin presented bills for supplies to the city presented bills for supplies to the city which had not been furnished. It is also charged that Moulin and two other politicians, Knop and Capdau, who are Police Commissioners, had signed an agreement before the election to divide all the patronage of the department, Moulin agree-ing to give Knop half his salary as Commissioner. The triumvirate do not agree and the result was a fight in Moulin's office between him and Knop and Knop's brother-in-law, in which Moulin was roughly handled.

The Mayor and President of the Council are criticised on the ground that they were aware of the irregularities in Moulin's office but took no steps against him. CRESCEUS

HIS ATTEMPT TO BEAT 2:02 1-4 FAILS BY FOUR SECONDS.

Covers a Mile in 2:06 1-4 at Poughkeep a Wonderful Performance Considering the Conditions-Only One Pace to Help Him-Big Crewd Present

POUGHEREPSIE, Aug. 8 .- Cresceus, king of the trotters, went a mile over the track of the Hudson River Driving Park this afternoon in 2:06%. He was slated to beat his own record of 2:02%, and, although he did not accomplish the feat, he trotted a wonderful mile, considering the conditions. The track was somewhat cuppy and devoid of life. An inch or two of top dressing had been laid on it, but it lacked the spring necessary for a horse to make the kind of speed that stope the watch in the neighborhood of two minutes. The hoof marks indicated that the shoes cut through the topsoil and struck an under surface that was as hard and unresponsive as a stone. Added to the unfavorable condition of the track was the fact that only one running horse was available to act as prompter for Cresceus.

tive-born American golf has in future to be A great crowd was present. It looked as if the entire population of the county had turned out to see the great trotter, while many horsemen from New York and surrounding towns were there. Every seat in the grandstand was occupied, the lawn was jammed and the crowd over-flowed into the track. It required the efforts of several officers to keep the course clear in front of the judges' stand.

At 2 o'clock George H. Ketcham, the millionaire owner, drove Cresceus first warming-up mile. The king was enthusiastically greeted and then logged from wire to wire in 2:43. After being cooled out he got another mile in 2:32, which was later followed by one in 2:17, the last half in 1:07. These miles were reeled off in the most matter-of-fact style, without company, and as though such speed was merely child's play. After each trial a crowd surged through the grounds to the Ketcham stables and crowded about the herea so that it was a hard matter for the attendants to attend to their duties. Just before going out to make his attempt to beat the record Ketcham said that he did beat the record Ketcham said that he did not expect to do better than 2.93\(\) or 2.95, while such experts as Jack Curry, Billy Andrews, Carll Burr and others said that if he stopped the watch at 2.96 he would be doing better than they expected. When William T. Brush, the starting judge, introduced Ketcham and announced that Cresceus was about to start on his journey there was a scrambling on the part of the crowd to secure good points of that Cresceus was about to start on his journey there was a scrambling on the part of the crowd to secure good points of observation impossible to describe. Some clung with scant foothold to the railing of the steps leading into the grandstand; many jumped the picket fence onto the track, and there was mighty shouting of "keep down," "get off the track."

Tim Murnan, the trainer, with the thoroughbred gelding Mike the Tramp, once pacemaker for the champion pacer Star Pointer, 1:59%, drove up the stretch to the draw gate to act as prompter. Mike wore a two-minute harness and was hooked to the latest pattern of a bike sulky. He appeared to know what was required of him as well as did Cresceus. He was turned several lengths above Cresceus and came down behind on a dead run Cresceus had been breezed past the judgee' stand twice at a fairly fast jog, but when he heard the runner thundering behind him he pricked bis ears, appeared to lower his head an inch or two despite the check rein, and as he flashed by the stand was making the speed that took him to the quarter pole in 31% seconds. There was no sign of a mistake in his work and no unnecessary motion or lost force. Every move counted. Passing the quarter pole the runner was as Cresceus's saddle, but dropped back to his wheel going through the half-mile grounds. At the three-quarters, Mike the Tramp again went up to the champion as though he was going to go to ters, Mike the Tramp again went up to the champion as though he was going to go to the front, but again dropped back and remained at Cresceus's wheel until they turned the straight for home. Half way down the stretch Ketcham took the reins in one hand and with the other began to fan the whip over Cresceue's back, never touching him, however. The champion appeared to know what was required of him and made an effort to increase his speed, the runner hanging along at his saddle until near the wire, when he fell back, Cresceus going under the wire in 2:06½, with a steady, powerful stride. When the time was announced there was mild applause, most of the crowd evidently ing disappointed that it was not closer o two minutes. Many men and women who were there to admire Cresceus enthusiastically pro-nounced him beautiful, but in a strictly nounced him beautiful, but in a strictly beauty contest the champion would run long chances of winning a ribbon. But in a show for equine strength and gameness he would wear the blue. He has a large head, set well on a straight neck. His ears are well shaped and indicate aristocratic blood, while his eyes are bright and intelligent. There is a great depth of chest, a well turned barrel and remarkable breadth across the rump. His less are chest, a well turned barrel and remarkable breadth across the rump. His legs are marvels of strength, being flat, hard as steel and well set on his body. He is a great racing machine and his general confirmation is such that the keenest horsemen are deceived in his size.

If a majority of the experts who have seen him were asked to judge his height they would undoubtedly say that he is not above 15.2 hands or 15.3 at the most. Yet he is 16 hands and half an inch. He weighed to-day 1,058 pounds. When he jogs slowly he appears to throw his hind legs to one side and seems rather awkward, but when he is straightened out at speed but when he is straightened out at speed there is a different story. As a precau-tionary measure he wears all the boots known to the harness maker with the exception of scalpers and elbow boots, and Ketcham said that if there was any use of his wearing a straw hat with a wet sponge under it, he would put that on him

At the stable, while Cresceus was being At the stable, while creaters was cong-cooled out after his performance to-day Ketcham noticed that he trembled slightly. "That is on account of the track," he said. "It was hard on him. I was compelled to drive him a long mile, for I discovered that as soon as I got near the pole he would strike the wheel of the sulky and consequently I kept him very nearly in the middle of the track. I consider the mile to-day just about as good as 2:03 on the Cleveland track. I will work him a couple more slow miles to-morrow remain here until Saturday when I go to the Brighton Beach track and give im his final preparation for the race with he Abbot. Of course I expect to win The Abbot. Of course I expect to win but The Abbot is a hard one to beat." In speaking of the future of Cresceus Ketcham said that he would be retired Ketcham said that he would be retired from racing at the close of the season and would probably be placed in the stud in Orange county, N. Y. However, he is now arranging a series of exhibitions between New York and California and he might be pleased with the Pacific slope well enough to remain there during the winter. He is fitting up special cars in fine style and will take his family on the Western trip Summary of the races to-day:

SHADOW CHIMESS FIRST MARK. Makes a World's Record for a Green Horse

Aug. 8 .- A record-breaking crowd, the largest ever at the track, turned out for the Grand Circuit races at Fort Erie to-day. Including the unfinished class carried over from Tuesday, a big programme of four events was disposed of. The racing throughout was of the highest class, the most enjoyable and interesting of the Circuit. Every contest was for blood, and rousing fighting finishes were the rule. In several heats the judges only could decide the win-

In the 224 pace, for a purse of $8,000, the four-year-old Audubon Boy, on the strength of his two good races at Cleveland and Columbus, was made an even choice with the field. After winning the first heat rather handily and taking a new record of 207%, he was all out. He could not come back in the second heat, and after a game fight surrendered to Shedow Chimes and New Richmond, who finished lapped and both driving. Shadow Chimes, the Village Farm's great pacer, had an easy time at the end of the next two miles, winning the fourth heat in 207%, well in front. His second heat in 207%, the first ever won by him, is a world's record for a green horse. In the same race a year ago Charley Hoyt won the first heat in 207%, the first ever won by him, is a world's record for a green horse up to that time.

The 2:10 trot, carried over from Tuesday after one heat had been decided, was won by Onward Silver. It was one of the most exciting races of the season. The close finishes in nearly every heat brought the spectators to their feet, each calling vocifierously to their several favorities. When Geers's horse went straight the contest was always between him and Cornelia Belle at the end. Every heat won by the Onward stallion was by a nose or short head only, he catching Cornelia Belle after a fierce drive in the last strides. The two heats won by Kirby's mare were equelly close, between her, Sister Alice and Dolly Dillon, respectively. The fourteen-year-old gelding George, favorite for the 2:00 pace, brought home the money and got a new mark of 2:07%, a second better than his Cleveland record. He was laid up the first heat, but easily outpaced the others in the remaining miles. Bornice, who won the fast heat, reducing her halfmile track record of 2:08%, went lame in the third heat and her driver pulled her up immediately after the horses got the word. Dan Patch had practically a walkover for first money in the 2:14 pace. He far outclassed his field. Summaries:

SWIMMERS OPPOSE A. A. U. Events Arranged in Which Governing Body Is Disregarded.

The swimmers and clubs that have been disciplined by the A. A. U. for taking part in and holding irregular competitions are gathering strength and there is every appearance of a determined opposition to the ruling body in amateur athletics. Three organizations are now on the war path, with an entire disregard for the edicts of the Union and a resolve to hold races, open or amateur, without the sanction of the A. A. U. Accordwithout the sanction of the A. A. U. According to some of the promoters, they will be supported by some of the swimmers who have hitherto recognized the jurisdiction of the A. A. U. Some of the members quoted as entering tabooed competitions are members of prominent Union clubs and there is a doubt in the minds of many as to where the disaffection will end. The prevailing idea is that the Union has taken a proper stand in its objection to women swimmers and the fact that the warm opposition to the enforcement of the rules comes from parties who are interested in money-making ventures still further strengthens the position of the Union objection to women swimmers and the fact that the warm opposition to the enforcement of the rules comes from parties who are interested in money-making ventures still further strengthens the position of the Union. The most outspoken of the "outlaws" is the Captain's Pier Association that held an open tournament a little while ago, under A. A. U. sanction. The rules on that occasion were violated. Half a dozen men who were not registered were allowed to compete and the association was promptly suspended for two weeks. C. W. Golding, father of Ethel Golding, whose competition at Yorkville baths caused the suspension of the organization in control there, is interested in the Captain's Pier Association. He has come out flat-footed with the announcement that the association will hold amateur races at the pier on Aug. 17, will accept whatever entries it pleases and pay no attention to the A. A. U. The events are fifty yards for girls, fifty yards for boys, one mile, and 100 yards for the woman's championship.

George W. Van Cleaf, a member of the Knickerbocker A. C., assisted in the management of the last swimming races at the Pier, but it is not known whether he is in sympathy with the movement to oust the A. A. U. The Wacondah A. C. of Fort Hamilton has announced open amateur races for next Saturday to be held at Hegeman's baths, foot of Fourth street, Brooklyn. The events are 100 yards, 220 yards and one mile. No sanction has been applied for, yet several swimmers who have hitherto recognized tas A. U. are said to have sent in their names. Another series of races has been advertised by the proprietor of a bath at Far Rockaway. The events, which are also scheduled for Saturday, are 100-yard and 220-yard open handicans, 100-yard for boys, duck race, tub race and early solve the proprietor of a bath at Far Rockaway. The events are also mentioned in the papers as probable competitors, while the names of many registered swimmers are also included in the published list of entries.

pania made a great fight against the Brooklyn Cricket Club yesterday at Prospect Park and managed to make a draw against the cracks of the City of Churches. The Brooklyns batted first and ran up a total of 123, but when stumps were drawn for the day only five of the Campanias wickets were down for 56. W. S. Patmore and J. Thomas did the best batting for Brooklyn, with contributions of 28 and 25, respectively, while C. T. Toddings hit hard for 20 and G. Bancroft for 18. For the Campania, I. Hodgson played a good not-out innings of 22, and R. Yates added 14.

The team of the steamship Marquette played the Nelson Lodge club at Prospect Park yesterday and had to submit to defeat by 124 runs. A. E. Smith carried his bat right through the Nelson Lodge innings, and by an exhibition of careful and patient play he amassed a score of 52, not out. J. H. Tattersall, F. P. Rogers and A. Nugent were the other Nelson men who contributed double figures, with 29, 23 and 13, respectively. Not one of the Marquette's men could make a stand against the bowling of G. Barnes, H. Nothsur and J. H. Tattersall, each of whom took three wickets at a cost of 5, 9 and 7 runs, respectively. The totals were: Steanship Marquette, 24; Nelson Lodge, 148.
